

Saturday of the Thirty-third Week in Ordinary Time

Gospel text (Lk 20,27-40): Some Sadducees arrived. These people claim that there is no resurrection and they asked Jesus this question...

Today, the Sadducees are bothering the Master again. The fact they bring up is ridiculous: a woman had had 7 husbands because they died one after another without leaving children ... (have you ever seen a 7 times widow?). Final question: "To which of them will the woman be wife" Don't you think it's a stupid question? Those Sadducees were very lost. This is what happens when you do not have the final hope of the resurrection: nothing is worth it!

- Let's ask a more interesting question: if there is no resurrection then... what kind of God do we have? The answer of Jesus: «He is God of the living and not of the dead».
